Metropolis Copper, 3200x1550x20mm

Please note, this item is discontinued and will only be available while stock lasts.

Metropolis Copper is like hidden treasure with its bronze-like markings sitting proudly against its creamy background that makes the surface shimmer and shine like precious metal.

The colour is warm and welcoming, and will add a convivial and friendly overtone to any kitchen design. With a speckled pattern that is at times sparse and at other times dense, Metropolis Copper brings an opulent touch to the kitchen that enhances its luxe appeal. The surface is accentuated by the textured, matte finish and is available in slabs of 3200mm x 1550mm and in 20mm thickness.

Each Metropolis Slab is unique. This product is made from natural materials and is subject to variations in colour, shade and grain structure. There may be a certain range of inconsistent variation, such as channels, dips, ridges, depressions and indentations.

The Metropolis Stone range comes in a Jumbo sheet size and has a usable area of 3200x1550mm. Please be advised that the unique characteristics of the Metropolis range include dips, hollows and rippling within the surface. These characteristics are more accentuated on the outer 100mm area of the sheets. If you don't desire these characteristics on your Benchtop, we suggest you calculate your design around a usable slab size of 3000x1350mm.

Specification Notes

This textured finish can require more daily maintenance than polished surfaces, so for optimum cleanability, Archant highly recommends applying Lithofin Sealer prior to use. This prevents the build-up of moisture within the surface texture and reduces the appearance finger and water marks considerably. Lithofin Sealer needs to be applied by your benchtop fabricator, post the install clean.
